Current Comment

Editorially the press of the land decries war, while the front page of every major journal chronicles in boldface type the doings of the armed forces of China and Japan. Like the pickpocket who aided an aged man across a busy thoroughfare, "lifting his leather" the while, the newspapers are burying their good intentions under a load of unconscious evil.

The constructive editorial should be given a place of prominence on the front page, while the bulletins from the war zone should be relegated to an inconspicuous spot on an inside section. Failing in this, one wonders if the unwonted diplay of war news may not be a device intended to stir youthful blood to battle-pitch. In view of the world-wide depression, is it unreasonable to believe that controllers of the world's wealth and resources would shudder at the chance to set the ball a-rolling, with a fistful of war contracts to feed the mills?

The machinations of wealth and power have been responsible for other conflicts—the killing of a government dignitary at a psychological moment, an insult to the flag of this or that country, a diplomatic "error"—any one of a number of things, comparatively unimportant in themselves, easily assume the proportions of a national calamity when viewed by a populace made war-conscious through the efforts of distinguished correspondents and the medium of printers' ink.

The publishers, naturally enough, count on their war stories to boost the circulation of their wares, forgetting, in their business zeal, that "the pen is mightier than the sword"—and that that is applicable to either side of a question. The tradition that the press is a molder of public opinion is not to be gainsaid, but of later years the business office has had little enough sympathy for the hard-working, conscientious, poorly paid editorial writers whose desire to mold public opinion along the lines most beneficial to humanity is genuine enough.

Contrary to popular belief the United States is entirely too war-like anyway, and the crop of youngsters who would make cannon-fodder for any current unpleasantness are, for the most part, too young to recall very clearly the horrors of the World war. It is to this impressionable youth that the war headlines would have the greatest appeal, and that would please the war lords better than a new kind of poison gas.

For these reasons it would be a fine thing if the newspapers of the United States payed a little less attention to the conflict raging on the far side of the Pacific.

That's all.

Louis Schmidt left last Wednesday for a few weeks visit in Los Angeles.

KIWANIS CLUB HAS BIG TIME AT NOON TODAY

"Friendship Day" today at Kiwanis, and what a friendship, a father and son affair. San Jose club that sponsored the Campbell club brought the treasure chest and friendship book of Kiwanis to Campbell today and incidentally it took a caravan of some twenty-five visitors to bear the treasure. Roy Wheeler, president of the San Jose club presided after receiving a note of welcome and the gavel from President Ira.

Wendell Thomas, past lieutenent governor gave a brief outline of the history and purpose of the chest and book. The chest of hammered iron and brass is the work of Kiwanian Pehn Otar the lamp-maker of Santa Cruz, and a most beautiful work of art. The friendship book is the work of the clubs as they add their touches of art and design before presenting to their neighbor club. The members of the club making the presentation visit sign the book at the hour of presentation. The friendship spirit thus engendered can only be surmised as that magic circle enlarges.

Kiwanian Will Baylor of San Jose made a most enspiring talk on "Friendship as the theme of club relationship". In closing he stated that wars would cease when friendship permeanted the hearts of men throughout the world. His final word quoted the poet Kibby who sums up the idea in his poem,

APPRECIATION

Life's a bully good game with its kicks and cuffs
Some smile, some laugh, some bluff;
Some carry a load too heavy to bear
While some push on with never a care,
But the load will seldom heavy be
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

It's the greatest thought in heaven or earth—
It helps us know our fellow's worth;
There'd be no wars or bitterness,
No fear, no hate, no grasping; yes,
It makes work play, and the care-worn free
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

—William Judson Kibby

The musical notes were furnished by the tenor artists, Cecil Innis and Billy Warren, two San Jose boys at home in our midst. Bro. Ferguson presided at the piano.

Tomorrow our club takes the chest and book to Mountain View. The art work and designing is being done be the artists Frank Cutting, Miss Hancie Naylor, Herold Morton. About twenty humpers will trek along on the trip.

Next Tuesday Rev. David Todd Gillmor of Los Gatos will speak on "Lincoln, the Man." H. C. Smith will act as chairman.

A meeting of the Pundita Circle will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. H. Cramer. Mrs. C. E. York and Mrs. George Smith, Jr., will assist here. The subject for the meeting is "Domestic Science and Household Efficiency.

CAMPBELL QUINT WINS ONE, LOSES ONE ON FRIDAY

The Campbell 130 basketball team lost the championship of this league to Fremont 130 team Friday night in a fast and exciting game. The score was even until the last quarter of playing when Fremont hooped several shots in succession to win the championship. The final score was 19 to 15.

The game of games, one of the best the fans of Campbell have ever witnessed on the home floor was played Friday night between the Campbell unlimiteds and the Fremont unlimiteds. Those starting the game for Campbell were: Murty, Robinson, Pryor, Ruscigno and Andrews. These five played a good consistent game of basketball. Three substitutes, Kiperash, Bollinger and Carlisle were used in a quarter of play and credit is due them for their playing. Honors were divided between the teams. This was the first game of the season that the local unlimiteds have won and they won it with a free throw. The score at the last part of the last quarter, with four seconds to go was 26 to 26. Murty hooped a free throw and the team held Fromont down to no score.

These were the last games of the season that Campbell will have unless they can get some outside games with the San Jose schools, which is improbable.

A regular meeting of the Ada Rebekah lodge will be held Tuesday, February 16. The committee in charge of the social hour is Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, Mrs. Emma Main and Ralph Holbrooks.

The mail department is working on the new system to be put in immediate use when the present system is stopped. At this time it is not known when the Peninsular cars will stop running but if and when they do the postal department of Campbell will be ready.

Japan Rejects Peace Proposals of America and European Powers—Mellon Quits Treasury to Be Ambassador to London.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DESPITE the vigorous protests and the proffered peace plans of the United States and the great European powers, Japan continues her relentless warfare on China. Developments came swiftly and continuously and as the week drew toward its close the situation was becoming more and more critical. Attacks on Shanghai by land, sea and air were renewed twice within 48 hours; the Woosung forts at the mouth of the Whangpoo were bombarded; Nanking and its protecting forts were shelled.

Admiral M. M. Taylor

While the attack on the Woosung forts was going on Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commander of American Asiatic fleet, arrived in the Whangpoo aboard his flagship, the cruiser Houston, from Manila, and the American forces for the protection of our nationals in China were reinforced also by nearly every warship that had been in the Philippines, together with the Thirty-first regiment of regular infantry, Great Britain, France, Italy and Portugal also rushed warships and troops to the China coast.

America and England, supported by France and Italy, proposed in Tokyo through their ambassadors a plan for restoring peace that embraced these points:

1. Cessation of all acts of violence on both sides at once on the following terms:

2. No further mobilization or preparations whatever for further hostilities.

3. Withdrawal of both Japanese and Chinese combatants from all points of mutual contact in the Shanghai area.

4. Protection of the international settlement by the establishment of neutral zones, these zones to be policed by neutral nations and arrangements to be set up by consular authorities on the spot.

5. Upon acceptance of these conditions a prompt advance to be made by negotiations to settle all outstanding controversies between the two parties in the spirit of the treaty of Paris and the resolution of the League of Nations of December 9, without prior demand or reservation and with the aid of neutral observers or participants.

After the emperor had been consulted the government announced that it rejected the second and fifth proposals and accepted the others conditionally.

IMMEDIATE reason for the protests of the powers against Japanese aggression in Shanghai was found in the persistent violations of the neutrality of the international settlement by the Japanese. They took possession of the Hongkew section and made it the base of their operation against Chapei, the native quarter, where the Chinese were still putting up a strong resistance and driving their foes back by force of numbers. Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general and head of the consular body there, was in the thick of things continuously, striving not only to curb the Japanese but also to bring about a cessation of hostilities. Once or twice he and his colleagues did arrange truces, but these were promptly violated and the fighting began all over again. For the details of that fighting there is no room in these columns.

Edwin S. Cunningham

China's government offices were removed from Nanking to Honanfu, 500 miles in the interior, in anticipation of an attack on the capital, and that attack soon followed. Two cruisers and a destroyer shelled the Nanking forts and parts of the city. As usual the Japanese had their excuse ready, asserting that the Chinese fired the first shots. However, correspondents aver that neither the forts nor the two old Chinese warships there replied to the Japanese fire. The population of the city was panic stricken and fled to the open country. Soon after the shelling the evacuation of the American citizens there was begun, although the firing had not been resumed.

RETIRING from the position of secretary of the treasury, which he has held since 1921, Andrew W. Mellon becomes the American ambassador to Great Britain. This was announced by President Hoover in a statement in which he gracefully called Mr. Mellon "one of our wisest and most experienced public servants."

The new ambassador is seventy-seven years old and his health of late has been so poor that Undersecretary Ogden L. Mills has been doing most of his work. Mr. Mills was named by the President to succeed Mr. Mellon as secretary of the treasury.

NATURALLY the opening of the international disarmament conference in Geneva was clouded by the discouraging situation in the Orient. Little had been expected from the parley before by independent observers of world affairs, and this little was lessened by the events in China. Arthur Henderson, former British foreign secretary, looking ill and worried, took his place as chairman of the conference and spoke for an hour, mostly in generalities, concerning what the meeting should accomplish.

Arthur Henderson

"I refuse to contemplate even the possibility of failure," Mr. Henderson said. "If we fail no one can foretell the evil consequences that might ensue."

With regard to the Chino-Japanese conflict, he said:

"We feel bound to refer to the tragic fact that at the very moment this conference, whose purpose is to promote peace, begins its work, we are confronted with such a situation of extreme gravity as that which now exists in the Far East.

"It is imperative that all signatories of the covenant of the League of Nations and the Briand-Kellogg pact make it their business to insure strict observance of these two great safeguards against acts of violence and war."

After the preliminaries and the organization of the conference the thousand or so delegates adjourned until the following week to prepare for the long drawn out sessions and protracted discussions. The most prominent statesmen were not expected before February 8. When Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, would arrive was uncertain.

GOV. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a leading aspirant for the Democratic Presidential nomination, has declared himself opposed to American membership in the League of Nations in an address before the New York State grange. In this he follows the lead of Newton D. Baker, also a Presidential possibility, who recently said that while he still believed in the league, he would not have the United States join in while popular opinion was against it.

Governor Roosevelt said he had no apology for having worked and spoken in behalf of American participation in the league when he was the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate twelve years ago. He added: "The league is not the league conceived by Woodrow Wilson. Rather, it is a mere meeting place for the political discussion of strictly European difficulties."

Other pronouncements by Roosevelt were that Europe's debts to America should not be canceled and that an international trade conference should be called to level tariff barriers.

SUCCESS crowned the efforts of the railway presidents and representatives of rail labor unions in their long sessions in Chicago. A formal pact was signed by which the unions accepted a wage reduction of 10 per cent for one year beginning February 1. The deduction is made from each pay check on every pay day, but the basic or legal wage is not disturbed and the full rates will be restored on January 31, 1933.

David B. Robertson

A separate agreement, in which the railroads made certain concessions along the lines of a program proposed by labor for the betterment of working conditions and the relief of unemployment, was signed simultaneously with the wage pact.

Leaders in the negotiations were David Brown Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, and Daniel Willard president of the Baltimore & Ohio railway.

HEADS of the leading civic organizations of the country met in Washington on Saturday, summoned by President Hoover to discuss and form a national organization for the purpose of conducting a campaign against depression and bringing out hoarded money. According to figures given by the President, a total of more than $1,300,000,000 of American money has been hoarded during the last year and is still out of circulation on a non-working basis.

ORGANIZATION of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation was completed with the election of Charles G. Dawes as president and Eugene Meyer as chairman of the board; quarters were opened in the old Commerce department in Washington and the reception and consideration of requests for loans was begun without delay. The senate already had confirmed the names of Harvey C. Couch and Jesse H. Jones as directors, and President Hoover sent in the name of Wilson McCarthy of Salt Lake City to complete the board membership. Applications for more than one hundred millions in loans had come in before the board began to function.

SENATOR WESLEY L. JONES of Washington, author of the "Five and Ten" law, has devised a way to compel states without state prohibition laws to enact such legislation. He introduced a resolution to prohibit the navy from sending any vessel to a port in any state without state enforcement, and to prohibit the holding of citizens' military training camps or the building of government ships in states without state dry laws.

The United Mine Workers of America, in convention in Indianapolis, adopted a resolution recommending the legalization of "good" beer, rather than an attempt to repeal the Eighteenth amendment, as the practical solution of the prohibition problem.

NEW hope was given the advocates of a large navy by the virtual war in the Orient. Senator Frederick Hale of Maine (Rep.), chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, delivered a prepared speech in the senate in behalf of his bil authorizing the building of the American navy up to treaty strength. He said that of all world powers Japan has made the greatest strides in naval armament, taking a legitimate advantage, under the terms of the treaties, of the laxity of the other powers.

Senator Hale.

"The next difficulty that we shall have to face," he said, "will, without doubt, be a demand on her part for parity with Great Britain and the United States," and he added that if we continue our policy of nonbuilding we shall be in a very poor position to dispute such a demand.

"A navy equal to our own in the Pacific," Senator Hale went on, "opens up many interesting problems for the future, and is not at all in conformance with our declared needs at the time of the Washington and London conferences, and no one can truthfully say the conditions in the East with the dove of peace in temporary hibernation on the China coast warrant any lessening of these needs."

SEA and land forces of the United States began their annual war game in Hawaii, the problem being the defense of the islands from invasion. Fighting planes from Wheeler and Luke fields established air bases on various islands, army tanks rushed about through the cane fields and artillery and infantry were stationed at points commanding possible landing places. All provisioning of troops was being done at night to avoid observation. Meanwhile the vessels of the navy were moving toward the archipelago preceded by seaplanes, for the attack which was to begin early Saturday morning.

BECAUSE his release would be "unjustifiable and incompatible with the welfare of society" the federal parole board denied the application for a parole for Albert B Fall, former secretary of the interior. Therefore Fall must serve his full sentence of a year and a day in the New Mexico state penitentiary where he was sent for bribery in connection with the oil lease deals during the Harding administration.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE started a debate of several days in the senate by moving to make the next order of business the bill prepared by himself and Senator Costigan of Colorado appropriating $375,000,000 to be given the states for the relief of the unemployed and needy directly. The opposition held that the major contribution of the federal government toward relief should be the administration measures for the extension of credit.

SANTIAGO, a picturesque and historical city near the eastern end of Cuba, was badly shattered by a series of earthquakes. At first the deaths were reported to be in excess of a thousand, but when the people calmed down it was found that not more than a dozen persons had been killed.

PANCAKES!

PANCAKES on a crisp winter's morning! Isn't that a delightful way to start the day off right? So popular are pancakes in our winter dietary that there have been many competitions among small boys—and some among even grown-ups, too—to see how many they could eat. The winners of these contests may have shattered local, or even national records, but some of them must have shattered their digestions, too. For a surplus of pancakes with sweet syrup after, say, the first dozen or two, is rather a strain on the average digestion.

With this grave problem in mind of saving pancake champions' digestions for future contests, a public spirited dietitian has devised a series of recipes for pancakes which contain as an ingredient Hawaiian pineapple. For this delicious tropical fruit contains an element which so helps digestion that these recipes may—who knows?—enable pancake champions even to eclipse their previous records, and eat more pancakes than ever before!

Try These on Your Griddle

Pineapple Crumb Cakes: Pour two cups milk over one and one-half cups fine bread crumbs, and let stand for five minutes. Add two well-beaten eggs and the well-drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Sift together one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt and three teaspoons baking powder, and add to crumb mixture together with two tablespoons melted butter. Bake on a griddle as usual, and serve with butter and maple syrup. This recipe makes sixteen small cakes.

Whole Wheat Pineapple Pancakes: Beat four eggs well, and add one and one-half cups milk. Sift together one cup flour, one cup whole wheat flour, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar and three teaspoons baking powder. Add to egg mixture together with the drained contents of one 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple. Add three tablespoons melted butter, and bake on a hot griddle. Serve with butter and maple syrup or shaved maple sugar. This recipe makes twenty-four small cakes.

Here's One for Dessert

Pineapple Dessert Pancakes: Beat two eggs well, and add one tablespoon sugar. Add one cup milk and the following sifted dry ingredients: one and one-eighth cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Add one cup boiled rice and two tablespoons melted butter. Bake in round cakes as usual. Butter each cake and place in the center a large spoonful of fruit mixture made by cooking the contents of a No. 2 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple with one-half cup sugar until thick. Fold sides over, or roll, holding together with toothpick if necessary. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once. Recipe makes twelve cakes.

Fruit for Breakfast

All these recipes have the advantage of contributing their quota of the fruit which everyone should eat for breakfast. But one wants some proteins also to start the day with in winter, so here is a pancake containing cheese. The dietitian states that it is wiser to slow up a bit after eating the first dozen or two of these.

Pineapple Cheese Pancakes: Beat two eggs and add one and one-half cups milk. Sift together two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt, and add to egg mixture. Add one cup grated cheese and the drained contents of one 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple. Bake on a hot skillet or griddle. Serve with butter and syrup. Recipe makes sixteen cakes.

Waffles, Too

And finally here is a recipe for waffles, also containing this delectable tropical fruit.

Pineapple Waffles: Beat three egg yolks well, and add one and three-fourths cups milk. Sift together two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt, and add to egg mixture. Add six tablespoons melted butter and two-thirds cup drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot waffle iron right at the table. ● The electric iron should be preheated ten minutes before baking the first waffle. Serve with the following pineapple sauce, and pass cubes of plain American cheese. This recipe makes seven large waffles.

Pineapple Sauce: Simmer one cup crushed pineapple, one cup sugar and three-fourths cup water until syrupy. Add three drops oil of peppermint. Cool to lukewarm, and serve on waffles.

SAFEGUARDING OUR HEALTH

The safeguarding of health has become a matter of sanitation and hygiene rather than one of medical attention, is the opinion of public health officials today. They state that health is based primarily on habitual cleanliness, and this belief is borne out in the fact that the terrible epidemics which once swept cities and even countries are unknown today in the more advanced countries where education in hygiene is universal.

Time was when baths were not spoken of in "polite" society, but now they are the subject of popular songs, and we boast of our cold showers in the morning, whether we really take them or not. Medical authorities agree that a cold shower is a fine way to start the day—if you like cold showers. But not everyone can submit to a cold shower with benefit, and no one should make a practice of taking cold baths who does not enjoy them honestly and keenly. Much more comfortable is the practice of taking a hot shower, and tapering it off to cool or cold.

We are told that less than a century ago doctors were seriously warning against the dangers of bathing. Now the doctor is the chief advocate of the tub. In fact, it wasn't so many centuries ago that a law was proposed in Philadelphia prohibiting baths from Nov. 1 to mid-March. A mere matter of two votes kept it from passing. Imagine a bath prohibition law restraining any citizen who was rash enough to want to take a bath in January! We laugh at the idea today—yet within recent years there were notions about wintertime bathing that were almost as foolish. Today doctors advocate daily baths in winter to assist in preventing and curing colds.

While we laugh at the "old-fashioned" idea today, it is really not remarkable that baths were infrequent in times past, when you consider the cost. Drawing water from the well, waiting for it to heat in kettles, washboilers, or "reservoirs" on an old fashioned wood or coal stove, lifting the heavy containers to and from the top of the stove were tasks not too formidable in winter. But in the summertime, keeping a roaring fire for hours just to heat a few gallons of water was a discouraging price to pay for cleanliness. Now the entire operation consists of turning the faucet.

Plenty of hot water on tap at any time the need arises, encourages children and grown-ups alike to a high standard of personal cleanliness—which means increased vitality and better health.

Hoover-for-President Club Organized Here

An organization of a local Women's Hoover-for-President club was perfected this afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. R. Kennedy.

Mrs. L. T. Smith, Santa Clara County chairman was present and assisted in the organizing. Mrs. E. R. Kennedy was chosen chairman of the Campbell district which includes the three voting precincts of Campbell, Union 1 and 2, Hamilton and San Tomas.

Mrs. R. H. Hyde will act as vice-chairman and Mrs. N. O. Best, secretary-treasurer, with Mrs. C. H. Whitman and Mrs. H. C. Smith, publicity committee.

Similar groups are being arranged throughout the entire county to work for the re-election of President Hoover and show that the women of his home county are strongly behind him.

The slogan adopted by the clubs of the county is "Principles, not Politics."

Your Telephone comes from Venezuela

Although about ninety per cent. of asphalt used in the United States is produced in oil refineries by distilling asphaltic petroleum, a portion of the nation's supply is obtained from natural asphalt lakes in Venezuela and the Island of Trinidad, British West Indies.

Asphalt is used in the preparation of paving and roofing materials and for many other industrial purposes. including the manufacture of japan. It is in the latter form that asphalt finds its place in the telephone, for certain types of transmitter cases and other parts of the instrument and various forms of telephone equipment are covered with this attractive and enduring black finish. The japan is applied in liquid form by spraying and is rendered permanent by baking.

The paper and foil units of telephone condensers are dipped in an asphalt preparation and enclosed in metal cans filled with the same compound.

The wires of central office cable terminals are often coated with asphalt to protect them from moisture.

Insect With Iron Teeth "Shorts" Telephone Lines

Right: Shown enlarged about six times, this bug bears the scientific name of Scobicia declivis—but that isn't what telephone linemen call it when they have to repair the holes it chews in lead covered telephone cables, allowing rain to enter and short circuit telephone wires. It is found in the South and West, particularly in California. Above is a telephone lineman riding a cable and using a mirror to help him locate the holes this "short circuit beetle" bites in the lead sheath.

Frances Bowden

Frances Bowden, eighteen-year-old "gal" fresh from the Ozark country, who is heard daily except Sunday at 5:15 P. M. (EST) over an NBC-WEAF network, giving her impressions of and reactions to New York City places and people. During the short time Miss Bowden has been on the air her program has beconfe immensely popular. On a recent broadcast she announced that photos of herself (like the above) with her autograph and an imprint of her cat's paw, were available to listeners. Within a few days more than 15,000 requests were received, and they're still coming in.

Dollar Days On S. P. Feb. 19-22

Holiday travel over Washington's birthday will have the benefit of "cent-a-mile" fares on Southern Pacific lines throughout California and five other western states, it was made known here today by C. T. Tanner, agent for the company.

The low-fare roundtrip excursions have been authorized for the four-day period from February 19 to 22, inclusive, with final return limit of March 1, Tanner stated. By falling on Monday, Washington's birthday provides an additional day's outing for week-end excursionists, it was pointed out.

Originated by Southern Pacific just a year ago, the so-called "dollar day" merchandising of train rides, featuring 100 miles for $1, represents the outstanding passenger traffic innovation of recent years, Tanner declared.

Founder's Day Is Celebrated at High School P. T. A. Meet

Founder's day was celebrated by the Campbell grammar school P. T. A. at their meeting last week. Mrs. M. H. Wisdom was guest of honor. A social hour was held after the business session when tea and coffee was served by girls of the lower grades who were dressed as colonial maidens. A large cake with candles was cut by Mrs. Rice, past president of the P. T. A.

Mrs. S. N. Hedegard appointed a committee in charge of the card party which is being planned for March 4. Those on the committee are Mrs. W. VanEvery, Mrs. H. Rediker, Mrs. W. Penhall, Mrs. C. T. Tanner, Mrs. W. Porter, Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Mrs. E. L. Farnham and Mrs. I. R. Abbott.

A regular meeting of the Campbell High school P. T. A. will be held Tuesday evening at the main building. A variety program will be put on by the students with poems, music, essays and talks on George Washington.

A SPRING Tonic Tune-up is a good thing for your Ford—and we are experts at prescribing the right medicine and the right treatment for anything that can possibly go wrong in a Ford.

The Ford car has a steel constitution—but heavy carbon deposits, carburetor or distributor out of adjustment, worn-out oil or grease, or unevenly adjusted shock absorbers are enough to make any car feel low.

Let us make a thorough examination. There's no charge for that—and as we fill the prescription ourselves, its cost is very low.

SPRING TUNE-UP

Carbon removed, valves ground! Crankcase, transmission and rear flushed and replenished with full-bodied lubricant. Front wheels repacked with fresh lubricant. Carburetor tuned. Distributor and spark plugs cleaned and adjusted. Fuel line and battery checked.
